NUMBER 23

Mr. Thos. J. Frazier, who will be remembered by most of our citizens as Register of the Land Office from 1859 to 1863, having been elected upon the same ticket with Gov. Magoffin, died in the Louisville Alms-house on Friday of last week.

The attention of farmers and others in need of fruit trees, grape vines, etc., is directed to the advertisement of Mr. H. F. Hillenmyer in another column. He has had a number of years of experience in his business and is in every way a reliable gentleman, and those of our own citizens who may patronize him can feel assured that any representations he may make with regard to his goods are correct. Patronize home institutions and get what you know to be good articles.

The ROUNDABOUT is read by five families, in a certain locality in this city, but is only subscribed for by one, the others borrowing it from the subscriber. The fifth family, after reading, beg it to send to a relative living in a distant State. Now, as it costs thirteen cents postage to send the paper three months, and the trouble of putting it in a wrapper and walking a half mile to mail it is certainly worth twelve cents, it seems to us to be just as cheap to leave twenty-five cents, with the address, at this office, and have it sent direct with more regularity. It certainly would relieve the subscriber alluded to of a great deal of annoyance and be less trouble to all parties, besides adding considerable to the wealth which we are rapidly amassing.

The veterans of the Mexican war met in the hall of the House of Representatives in this city last Monday. About one hundred were present, the majority of them with heads grown white with age. Gen. Green Clay Smith, one of the youngest, if not the youngest, of the assemblage, was made Chairman, and Col. J. G. Craddock, of the Paris Kentuckian, Secretary, with Mr. D. Runyon, of Lexington, Assistant Secretary.

Resolutions requesting our Senators and Representatives in Congress to use all honorable means to secure the passage of a law granting pensions to the survivors of the Mexican war were adopted, and the association made a permanent organization.

Speeches were made by Gen. S. S. Fry, Gen. Green Clay Smith and Col. Phil. B. Thompson, sr., and an interesting paper was read by Gen. W. J. Landram.

The names of those present were enrolled, with rank, and command to which they belonged.

Gen. Green Clay Smith was appointed to deliver the annual address at the next meeting.

The following officers were elected, and then the Association adjourned to meet in this city on the 22d of February, 1881.

President—Gen. Green Clay Smith.
Vice Presidents—Gen. W. J. Landram and Gen. T. T. Garrard.
Secretary and Treasurer—Col. J. G. Craddock.
Assistant Secretary—Mr. D. Runyon.

The New Orleans Minstrels make much better music with six horns than the majority of bands make with sixteen.

One of the members of the Legislature came to the conclusion last Monday, while attending the veteran's meeting, that if some of the members of the House of Representatives could be traded off for Mexican soldiers the House would be a much more orderly body.

The Blue-Grass Convention.

The Blue-Grass Temperance Convention, which was in session at Harrodsburg last week, was attended by about one hundred delegates and visitors. The meeting was one of exceeding pleasure and interest, the reports of the delegates showing that the Order is not only in a healthy condition, but on the increase. Twenty-two more Lodges were reported than at the last August session, which was gratifying to the temperance workers. A commendable desire to accomplish something for the temperance cause was evinced by nearly all present, and that something was done will be developed before the meeting of the Grand Lodge.

Prominent among the good work done by this Convention was the contribution of $109 25 towards the liquidation of the Grand Lodge debt.

Another of the results of the meeting was the addition of sixteen members to the Harrodsburg Lodge—mostly young men. The public meetings at night were largely attended by the good people of Harrodsburg and vicinity, and everybody seemed to enjoy them.

The next session of the Blue-Grass Temperance Convention will be held in Georgetown, commencing on the third Tuesday in next August and continuing three days.

The following are the officers:

Judge T. M. Cardwell, Harrodsburg, President.
Miss Carrie Duncan, Nicholasville, R. H. S.
Miss Lizzie Metcalfe, Nicholasville, L. H. S.
Miss Katie Adair, Paris, Vice President.
Sidney French, Frankfort, Past President.
Elder — Corn, Mercer county, Chaplain.

Claude Buckley, Frankfort, Secretary.

Miss Iva McCarney, Paris, Assistant Secretary.

Miss Sallie Johnson, Fayette county, Treasurer.

Richard Ferguson, Fayette county, Marshal.

Miss Nellie Johnson, Fayette county, Deputy Marshal.

Geo. T. McCarney, Paris, Inside Guard.

—, Harrodsburg, Outside Guard.

We shall always remember with pleasure our visit to Harrodsburg, and especially shall we cherish feelings of regard for Mrs. Chas. A. Hardin and her sons, whose guest we were. To Judge T. M. Cardwell, Hon. E. J. Polk, and the proprietors and attaches of the Observer office, and others, we are under obligations for courtesies extended to us during our stay there.

Mr. Dan. Meagher, sr., was about to get upon his cart in the yard of Hancock's stable, Monday afternoon, when the horse started catching him between the cart and the stable, and bruising him severely about the chest and limbs.

A press meeting has been called to meet in this city on Thursday, March 11th, 1880, for the purpose of promoting a general advertising law. It is constituted of three members from the State at large, and one from each Congressional district.

Messrs. Crutcher & Starks, the capitol clothiers, received an order Wednesday from the great minstrels for an elegant suit of clothes for each of its proprietors, Barlow, Wilson, Primrose, and West. They said they found finer goods, better and more fashionable work, and better prices here than in any city in all their travels. This is a compliment not only to this popular firm, but to our citizens who buy their goods from them also.

The WEEKLY ROUNDABOUT is published every Saturday, at one dollar per annum, invariably in advance.

Six months, 50 cents; three months, 25 cents. Money may be sent by post-office money order, or registered letter at our risk.

Notices of Marriages, Births, and Deaths inserted free of charge. Obituary notices will be charged for at our regular advertising rates.

If your ROUNDABOUT is marked on the first page with a red X it indicates that your subscription has expired and must be renewed before you receive another paper.

Our City Fathers.

In addition to the constitutional oath, required by law, the City Charter says the Councilmen shall "take an oath before some officer authorized to administer oaths, that they will faithfully, and without favor or affection to any one, discharge the duties that may devolve upon them."

The duties devolving upon them, as is generally understood, are to support and protect the Constitution and laws of the United States and the State of Kentucky, to make laws for the government of the people of Frankfort, not in conflict with the Constitution and laws of the United States and of the State of Kentucky, and to see that the laws and ordinances are properly observed.

How are the laws and ordinances observed? Just as though there were none, unless it is agreeable to do so. The following are some of the finable offences under the city ordinances, approved December 24th, 1879, which are treated as though they had never been mentioned in the ordinances:

Fast riding; leaving team unattended; keeping barking dogs; Councilmen absent from Council meeting; bulk, jut, window, &c., in street; cellar door being left open; trash, cinders, or shavings in street; wheel barrow on sidewalk; playing ball, bandy, or shooting fire-crackers; digging and hauling earth, sand, &c., from streets; playing faro bank or gaming; permitting faro on premises; gambling on premises without consent of owner; boys congregating at railroad depot; keeping swine in city limit; VIOLATION OF SUNDAY LAW.

We say without fear of contradiction, that there is not a member of the City Council who does not know that the Sunday Law is openly and boldly violated every week by the rum-sellers of Frankfort, and we have good authority for saying that the police are instructed by Councilmen not to interfere with the peace-destroying, death-dealing keepers of the "dead-falls" that disgrace our city, unless they become riotous and disorderly. By what right they assume such authority no one can tell.

No city has a better police force than Frankfort. No braver men can be found, none more ready to discharge their duties; but they are in the employ of the Council—not the people—and are hampered with "instructions," so the Sunday Law is not enforced. Indeed, it is somewhat a matter of surprise that there is such a thing in the city ordinances, when one considers that there are men in the City Council to-day who voted two years ago to allow bar-rooms to be kept open on Sunday.

It would seem that the ordinances were "approved" by the Council because they sound well, look well on paper, and serve to please the public.

The members of the Council know that the best interests of the city demand that the law prohibiting the sale of liquor on Sunday be enforced. They have sworn to obey these same laws and it is their duty to see that others obey them.

Personally, we like the members of the City Council. They are clever men and want to please everybody—at least, a majority. They are good law-makers, but as officials who mean to have the laws enforced, they are not worth a pewter cent. If they would shake themselves clear of the political(?) loafers, election bums, be-sotted dead-beats and whisky vendors; close the fifty-six bar-rooms in Frankfort on Sundays—close them in front, in side and in rear—give weak and erring men one day of exemption from the terrible temptations that every day and at every turn beset them; have the moral courage to instruct the police to enforce the laws as they appear on the books, and see that they are enforced, they will win the respect and esteem of every honest person in Frankfort; and if these measures of reform are persevered in, every Christian man will stand by them to the bitter end and help them to enforce the laws, with a musket in his hand, if necessary. Will you, DARE you do it, Councilmen?

The annual meeting of the Franklin County Bible Society was held in the Presbyterian Church last Sunday night. From some cause the attendance was not near so large as on former occasions. The exercises were exceedingly interesting and much enjoyed by all present. An able address was read by Pro. Jas. K. Patterson, of the A. and M. College, Lexington. The following officers were elected to serve the ensuing year: E. L. Samuel, President; all the resident ministers of the county, Vice Presidents; J. N. Crutcher, Secretary; Guy Barrett, Treasurer; Grant Green, J. W. Payne, C. C. Furr, Dr. B. T. Wood, and J. W. Pruett, Executive Committee.

Major H. T. Stanton was requested to give a poetical reading before the Legislature Wednesday evening, which he consented to do. On repairing to the hall of Representatives, the place appointed for the reading, on that evening, the Major found only about seven or eight of those who had signed the call upon him present, the remaining seventy or eighty having either forgotten their request or preferred to go to the minstrels at Major Hall. Not very complimentary to one of Kentucky's greatest poets, to say the least of it.

The young ladies who fell in the mud while horse-back riding, a notice of which appeared last week, have company in the shape of an east end young lady who went to see her sweetheart in the country last week, and tumbled in the mud, while riding down a hill on a wagon. She didn't have a handsome young doctor to pick her up.

Personal.

County Court next Monday.

Wednesday was a regular March day.

Early gardeners are preparing to put in potatoes, peas and onions.

Uncle Davy Meriwether, who was stricken with partial paralysis several weeks ago, is slowly improving.

A necklace was found on the street last Sunday, which the owner can have by calling at this office and proving property.

The secretaries of the various Sunday-schools are requested to hand in their reports for February as early next week as possible.

Criminal Court will convene in this city next Monday, and many of "the boys" will no doubt, hide out while the Grand Jury is in session.

Messrs. Day & Hafl are selling an extra choice article of hemp seed. Farmers in need of seed will do well to call and examine it before purchasing.

You are earnestly requested to attend the temperance meeting at the court-house to-night. The meeting will be called to order promptly at half past seven o'clock.

There has been more shooting on the South Side this week. Three shots were fired near the corner of Second and Shelby streets about one o'clock Wednesday morning. More police wanted.

Mr. "Sant" Mayhall, of this city, one of the veterans present at the Mexican soldiers' meeting last Monday, received seventeen lance wounds and was shot once at the battle of Buena Vista.

The nicest lot of chamber water sets brought to this city for many months may be seen on the shelves of Capt. E. H. Taylor's house-furnishing store. They are not only beautiful, but very cheap.

Mrs. Bohannon has placed in her store this week a choice lot of staple and fancy groceries. She reports her business in a most flourishing condition, which is no more than she richly deserves.

The City Council will meet in regular session next Tuesday night, when, it is hoped, some action will be taken in reference to numbering the houses and posting the names of the streets in conspicuous places.

There was a large gathering of our citizens to witness the administering of the ordinance of baptism at the pond on Cross street, South Frankfort, last Sunday afternoon. Rev. Green Clay Smith officiated and thirteen candidates were immersed.

Foresters meet next Wednesday night.

Hon. John D. White has resigned his seat in the Legislature and returned home.

Nice flag walks have been laid in that portion of the city east of the penitentiary, and the people of that neighborhood walk in mud no more.

The attention of our farmers, and especially those who are mule raisers, is directed to the advertisement of Mr. L. E. Wilson in another column.

Mr. N. F. Richardson has laid the foundation for a cottage on the corner of Shelby and Campbell streets, South Frankfort, and will commence the frame work shortly.

There is a man living in the western end of the city whose appetite has such control over him, that he actually sold his ax the other day to get money to buy whiskey with.

The fire engine came out for practice Wednesday afternoon, and the water thrown on St. Clair street effectually settled the dust that had made the atmosphere so thick that it could be cut with a knife.

As one of the female hands at the Cotton Mills was standing in the yard with a kettle of boiling water in her hand Wednesday her little child ran to her, jerked her dress fell into the water, and was badly scalded.

A barber shop has been established in one of the front rooms of the livery stable building at the corner of Bridge and Second streets, South Frankfort, where hair cutting, shaving, shampooing, &c., is done in the highest style of the art.

Mr. John B. Dryden, the popular new dealer, has purchased of Mr. Ben. Marshall the Post-office News Depot and will take possession of that establishment on Monday. The many friends of Mr. Marshall will hereafter find his smiling countenance behind the counter of Messrs. Marshall & Meagher, where he will be glad to see them.

Last Monday afternoon, while Mr. Walter Pierce was loading his furniture into a wagon for the purpose of removing from his former residence to a house on Cross street, South Frankfort, the horse attached to the wagon took fright and ran away, strewn the household goods along the street, breaking them up, and finally smashing the wagon to pieces.

The alarm of fire at 1 o'clock Wednesday morning was occasioned by the burning of the fixtures of William Harris' barber shop, in a room in the old jail building, on Clinton street. The fire department was out in time to extinguish the flames before they had made much headway. The origin of the fire is supposed to be the explosion of a lamp left burning in the room.

The column of "Biographical Sketches" which is wont to appear in the Yeoman with each meeting of the Legislature, has been sadly missed this winter. Surely, the Yeoman means no slight to the members of the present General Assembly by having neglected this biennial duty. Now that the subject is mentioned, it is to be hoped that the biographical will be set to grinding at once, so a body can see who's who. It would, no doubt, be very gratifying to the members of the Legislature.

The tide brought down hundreds of mountain boys and thousands of saw-logs.

Mr. Gus. Shaefer is the agent for the sale of the latest and best thing in the way of a patent gate hinge we have seen. It will close the gate when opened and is arranged so that the gate will open out either way. A patent latch also accompanies the hinges that will lock the gate in such a way, when closed, that it cannot be opened unless with the hand, and there is no danger of hogs getting into a yard that has a gate fitted up with these attachments. Go and see Mr. Shaefer, at his shop on Broadway, and he will tell you all about them. They are cheap and durable.

Monday night Ed. Kennedy, a colored boy employed at Mr. N. Alley's stable, broke into the warehouse of Mr. Sam. Harris, on the alley adjoining the Baptist Church, and stole a lot of old copper, which he took to Mr. Ed. Power and offered for sale. Mr. Power told him the bank was not open, but as soon as it was he would draw some money and pay him for it. Officer John Rupe was informed by Mr. Harris of his loss, and in tracing up the thief he found the copper at Mr. Power's, and was informed by him who had brought it there. Wednesday morning he arrested Kennedy and lodged him in jail, where he now awaits the action of Judge McMannan's court next week, with a fair prospect of going to the penitentiary.

Last Thursday morning when the convict, whose duty it is to clean out the cells in the penitentiary, opened the door of one of the cells the occupant, a white man by the name of Pheland Hensley, fell out upon the walk, dead. A coroner's inquest was held upon his body and brought in a verdict of death from paralysis of the heart. Hensley came to the penitentiary on the 18th of last November and was placed at work in the hemp factory. He was relieved from duty by Dr. Sawvier about two weeks ago, on account of not feeling well enough to work, and had been about the hospital most of the time since. Monday afternoon he applied to the hospital steward for a diarrhea remedy, but when he went to his cell said he felt all right. He had, evidently, gotten up in the night, and, lying, had fallen against the door.

WEEKLY ROUNDABOUT.

The city has been crowded with mountain men this week, bringing a rich harvest to our stores. Some of our business houses were open to them nearly all day last Sunday, in direct violation of the Sunday Law.

Every corner of every street in this city ought to have the name of the street on it, and every house ought to have a number on it. The Council meets in regular session next Tuesday night, and we hope it will give this matter its consideration.

Mr. W. J. Hughes has commenced the erection of a frame residence on the site of the old Eli Smith mansion, Logan street, South Frankfort. The foundation is about completed, and the building will be pushed forward rapidly if the weather permits.

No member of the Legislature can afford to go home without taking with him a suit of clothes from Berberich's Emporium of Fashion. Mr. Berberich is a real artist in his line, and can cut and make a suit to please the most fastidious. He is entirely trustworthy, and whatever representations he makes may be implicitly relied on.
